

"Build it and they will come."

Social Distancing During Play:

- All players are to practice social distancing (6ft. between each player) when possible.
- At all times, avoid touching your eyes, nose, or mouth. Avoid non-game related contact with others. Do not shake hands, high-five, fist bump, etc.
- If needed, cough or sneeze into the crease of your elbow or in a tissue. Do not lick. Do not spit.
- We recommend each player use their individual equipment. For those who choose to share equipment, they must properly sanitize the equipment before and after sharing.

Offensive Players (Hitting):

- Offensive players may not touch the ball with their hands.
- On-deck batter must have adequate space in the dugout (6ft.) to leave the playing field if the ball enters within 6ft. of their surrounding so they can retreat to the dugout immediately.
- Base coaches are not recommended. For those teams that wish to have base coaches, base coaches must be 6ft. from all players at all time. In the case of a defensive player moving towards the base coach, it is the base coach's responsibility to be prepared to move away from the play, to a location where they will be more than 6ft. apart from all players.
- Offensive team will verbally report their scores to umpires following each inning.

Defensive Players (Fielding):

- The catcher will stand 6ft. behind the strike mat (and batter).
- If contact in a defensive play is required, social distancing is immediately back in effect after the play is made.
- No coaching conferences and group huddles will be allowed for under any circumstance.
